DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mitobe 5,111,510. Mitobe discloses a ring-shaped permanent magnet 33 with a supporting member 16 comprising a synthetic resin with the magnet being insert molded as described in column 3 lines 21-29.

In regard to claim 2, see Mitobe figure 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mitobe in view of Yen et al. 5,687,248 and Stuart 5,321,762. Mitobe discloses a voice coil actuator having a ring-shaped permanent magnet and a supporting member of resin but does not disclose using a NdFeB magnet and does not disclose a ring-shaped magnet magnetized in a radial direction. Yen et al. teaches in column 3 lines 29-32 that NdFeB magnets have high magnetic energy density and thus a smaller and lighter magnet can be used to produce the same amount of flux. Stuart teaches in column 4 lines 5-17 that radially magnetizing an actuator magnet can produce a smaller and lighter actuator. Since Stuart, Yen et al. and Mitobe are from the same field of endeavor and since Mitobe does not disclose the type of magnet used or the direction of magnetization for that magnet, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made for one of ordinary skill in the art to have utilized a radially magnetized NdFeB magnet in order to reduce the weight of the device so that the device could be used in places where weight was a critical factor.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 4 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art of record does not disclose or teach a magnet with a positive thermal expansion coefficient along a direction of thickness and a negative thermal expansion coefficient in another direction in combination with the other features of claim 4.
